How do you feel about the new grooming standards?

HA D. Beck, Nursing Service: "The new standards don't seem to be much of an incentive to advance in rate; but, it seems to make everyone look a little bit sharper in appearance anyway."

M. Sobczak, Urology Service: "I approve of the no beard rule, but it should apply to everyone in the Navy and not to just a few."

R. Garman, Laboratory Service. "I think everyone has the right to express himself as he wishes, as long as he is neat, clean and well groomed."

HN J. White, Radiology Service: "It doesn't bother me that the rule is in effect. I think everyone should be clean shaven. It looks more military."

DT3 E. Walker, Dental: "I agree with the new grooming standards, and I feel they should apply to all ranks."

HM3 T. Wallace, Orthopedics: "I tend to disagree with them. If a person grows a beard and maintains it according to grooming standards then I don't see why all rates can't have them."

"That You Might Grow, and Abundantly"

My wife recently asked, regarding our daughter, "How long will she be 14?" Slightly irritated by the needling/reacting relationship between our 12 year old son and 14 year old daughter, she voiced the exasperation of many parents. I felt it also. While teens sing of "making up is hard to do," maybe they are meaning "growing up is hard to do." I'm high on both of their growth outcomes.

Teens are caught in the middle. Greatly desirous of being adults, they resent any implication they are still children. However, early teens are still surrounded by those symbols of childhood: bicycles rather than autos, school, household routines, and Mom and Dad. Late teens have probably dropped most of the symbols but still must deal with "What I've been told" regarding God, moral values, and high ideals versus "What I believe" about these matters.

Grown-up faith lives by discovery learning, reflection, honest confession, and obedience to the Living God. Someone once remarked to me, "You are young only once, but you can be immature forever." Heavy, but true. I feel that when Jesus said, "I came that you might have life, and have it abundantly." (John 10:10), he was referring to growing up. Growing up often gets sabotaged by settling in too long in the pits of cynicism and disgust with "What I've been told." Healthy dialogue with a mature, concerned and loving person is an act of faith. It often leads to a growth spurt. And that may hurt for awhile but will lead to abundant living when some personal beliefs are set in place. Growth is the only satisfying alternative to being "caught in the middle."

To Whom It May Concern:

"I recently had the opportunity to be a patient in the new NRMC Orlando. Although my stay was relatively short, less than a week, I had the chance to meet various personnel associated with the hospital's functions. I must compliment each and every individual for their utmost sincerity as well as the simplest courtesies I was shown as a patient.

"Due to the nature of my hospitalization and fear of the outcome, I found my temper shorter and my attitude less than friendly. The friendly faces, kind words and helpful direction, which I encountered from all the staff, made my hospital stay more bearable. I would like to take this opportunity to commend the entire staff, not only for the efficient way they run the hospital, but for the smiles, kindnesses and courtesies that made all the difference."

The preceding letter is only an example of many letters received by this command. There is, however, an important message that comes forth from all of these letters. Common courtesy, although sometimes ignored or pushed by the way-side, can mean so much. A helpful word or a smile at the right time can make all the difference.

As members of this hospital staff, in addition to our daily duties, we must keep in mind and make a conscious effort to be more courteous to patients, visitors and to our fellow staff members. Our attitudes and feelings are so easily transmitted to those around us. Keeping that thought in mind ..... remember,

COURTESY IS CONTAGIOUS

..... let it start with you, TODAY!

HM "C" Schools

The following article was published in the April - June issue of LINK and was authored by HMC G. E. Chapman, the HM "C" School Detailer (NMPC-407C).

All HM "C" School assignments are based upon a competitive selection concept, thus providing for only the best qualified candidates being assigned to advanced training.

The highly competitive school assignments (those which are highly desirous but training quotas are limited) are determined by a quarterly selection board. The board is comprised of representatives from BUMED, HSETC and NMPC. One must remember that the class convening date of the school is the determining factor on deciding which board will select for that school. The board months are as follows:

Board Month Selects for Classes Convening in...

|              |                                   |
|--------------|-----------------------------------|
| March 81     | October, November and December 81 |
| June 81      | January, February and March 82    |
| September 81 | April, May and June 82            |
| December 81  | July, August and September 82     |

The selection boards normally meet during the first week of each month as indicated above. It is desired that applications for the selection boards arrive at NMPC a month prior to the board meeting to allow for processing. This permits the detailer time to ensure the request is complete, and if needed, additional information can be requested for inclusion in the member's "school package". Applications for the following schools are reviewed by the aforementioned selection board: HM-8408, 8416, 8433, 8466, 8472, 8477 and 8541.

All other school selections are determined on a case-by-case basis, still maintaining the competitive selection process. Determination on an individual's request is normally made within 7-10 working days from the time the complete request is received at NMPC.

The titles of the NEC's listed are as follows: HM-8408 Cardiopulmonary Technician; HM-8416 Clinical Nuclear Medicine Technician; HM-8433 Transplant Technician; HM-8472 Medical Photography Technician; HM-8477 Biomedical Equipment Technician (Basic); and HM-8451 Inhalation Therapy Technician.

For information concerning school requests or other information pertaining to career planning, see HM1 Shockey, your career counselor. His office is located in the Human Resource Management Service and he can be reached on X4928 or X4929.

"...all good things must come to an end!"

The past 4½ years have really flown by and the end of my tour of duty is fast approaching. However, I cannot leave without telling all of the staff of NRMC Orlando, what a privilege it has been to serve with you and to make your acquaintance. Now, there is only enough time left for a final peep through the "retrospectoscope."

In these columns, you have practically met our entire Laboratory staff and, I am sure, perceived them as health care providers who are intimately concerned with patient care. They've been a great team and I am proud to have served with them. Indeed, it is the concerted efforts of receptionists, phlebotomists, technicians, supervisors, secretaries, Red Cross volunteers, chiefs, laboratory officers and fellow pathologists that have made my duties a pleasure.

Dr. McCann's replacement, Dr. Skip Smyth, is already on board. Some time in October, Dr. Paul Petit will arrive from the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology in Washington, D.C. and will serve as the Chief of Service. Please extend to them a warm welcome.

Best wishes and continued success to each one of you.

JAMES D. COTELTINGAM

ERA (equal rights for asphyxia)

..... a new era for women in smoking and health. Cancer of the lung used to kill men at a ratio of nine-to-one as compared with women -- and it's held off all challenges as numero uno in killing men. BUT latest projections of the National Cancer Institute suggest bronchogenic carcinoma will surpass breast cancer as Number One Killer of females by 1983.

How is it possible? Twenty years after the authoritative voice of U. S. Health proclaims to the world -- smoking victimizes, then slays people, women are knocking themselves off at a sky-rocketing rate. Look at this litany:

- 1906 - clandestine smoking by secretaries
- 1922 - women smoking openly on the byways of New York
- 1929 - 16 per cent of all smokers were women
- 1934 - Eleanor Roosevelt puffed in public
- 1937 - 26 per cent of smokers were women
- 1949 - 33 per cent of smokers were on the weed
- 1976 - percentage increase of women smokers surpasses that of male smokers, peaking at 38 per cent
- 1977 - and a first - number of women smokers surpasses male smokers

Note this contradiction! The highest percentage of women smoking, ages 21 to 35, is NURSES!

Maybe this is a factor in the nurse shortage. We know that studies show smoking women lose 50 per cent more days from work each year than non-smokers. This is clearly supported by more frequent AND longer periods of illness suffered by all smokers.

Today 26.1 per cent of females, ages 12 to 18, smoke! This is a national disgrace! Why do they? Parental, peer, teacher, heroine models seem to play definitive roles.

We can change some NOW!
